

ASLTIP Find a Therapist Directory Fair Use Policy

Why we have this policy

ASLTIP's Find a Therapist directory helps people find and contact independent speech and language therapists directly. It is free to use, and ASLTIP does not charge commission on referrals.

We have invested time and resources in building and maintaining the directory. This policy sets out how it may be used and protects it from being copied or repurposed by other organisations.

Who can use the directory

You may search the directory and contact one or more therapists for yourself or someone you support.

Case managers, solicitors, insurers, schools, GPs and other professional referrers may use it to find a therapist for an individual client. You may also link to the directory or an individual public profile and recommend ASLTIP to others.

What is not permitted

Without ASLTIP's prior written permission, you must not:

- Use bots, scrapers, scripts or other automated tools to collect information from the directory.
- Systematically copy, extract or store all or a substantial part of the directory, including by collecting smaller amounts repeatedly.
- Use information from the directory to build, populate, update or promote another directory, database, matching service, referral platform or therapist network.
- Use the directory to gather information about members for marketing or recruitment, or to direct enquiries through a paid or commission based third party service.
- Sell, publish or share a collection of directory information with another organisation.
- Bypass or attempt to bypass measures used to protect or monitor access to the directory.

If you need wider access

If your organisation would like to use directory information beyond ordinary searches and individual enquiries, contact office@asltip.com first. We can discuss what you need and whether an agreed arrangement is appropriate. ASLTIP must confirm any permission for wider use in writing.

How we respond to misuse

If we identify or reasonably suspect that the directory is being misused, we may investigate, restrict access and ask the person or organisation involved to stop. We may take appropriate legal action where necessary and inform affected members or the Information Commissioner's Office where appropriate.

Report a concern

If you believe someone is copying or misusing the directory, please email office@asltip.com with any details you have.

Review

We will review this policy as the directory develops. The current version will be available from the Find a Therapist page.
